I. C. WRECK AT GRACEY.

Open Switch Causes Serious Derailment of Passenger Train.

THREE PEOPLE HURT.

Conductor H. C. Nelson's Injuries Very Serious, Including Skull Fracture.

Illinois Central passenger train No. 332, which leaves this city at 6 o'clock a. m., ran into an open switch at Gracey Saturday morning and was wrecked. Three people were injured, several box cars on the siding were torn up and the passenger engine considerably damaged.

Conductor H. C. Nelson, whose home is in Evansville, was standing in the smoker when the crash came and was thrown violently to the floor of the car. His head struck a seat as he fell and he received a serious cut and sustained a fracture of the skull.

James W. Green, of Mayfield, who travels for a St. Louis hardware house, was badly bruised about the body and one leg was injured.

Mrs. Hennie Boyd, who resides a few miles north of this city, received a cut on her lower lip. Mrs. Boyd was enroute to Cartersville, Ill., on visit.

A coach of the wrecked train was attached to the engine of the Cadiz train, which was standing near the depot when the accident occurred, and the injured were immediately brought here. They were taken to the Rich House and Dr. H. H. Wallace rendered the necessary surgical aid.

At 11:20 the same morning Capt. Nelson was sent to the railroad company's hospital at Paducah and Mr. Green left for his home in Mayfield. Mrs. Boyd also went to her home in the country.

GINSENG GARDEN

In Simpson County, Will Yield Big Crop This Year.

Franklin, Ky., Oct. 14.—A few years ago Dr. O. G. Wilson, of this place, tried the experiment of raising ginseng. This year he will gather three quarters of a million seeds, which he will market next fall. The garden is 50x250 feet, and is so covered that about 80 per cent. of shade shelters the plants. Dr. Wilson is thoroughly versed in the culture of ginseng, and has contributed valuable articles to journals published exclusively in the interest of the "Chinese medicine."

A. E. WILLSON TRUST LAWYER

For the American Tobacco Company, Says Morgan Chinn in Speech.

FACTS ABOUT GUS

Willson's Name on Trust Case in the Court of Appeals.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 14.—In a speech at a Democratic rally in the county here Saturday, J. Morgan Chinn, clerk of the Court of Appeals, proved by the records of the office that in the only case where the American Tobacco company had ever been involved in the Court of Appeals, Augustus E. Willson, the Republican candidate for Governor, appeared as its attorney.

This statement created a sensation among the tobacco growers of this district who immediately declared themselves almost solidly for Judge Hager.

CARBOLIC ACID

Taken by Mistake for Castor Oil.

The wife of Mr. John Clark, a well-known farmer of near Crofton, swallowed a quantity of carbolic acid Sunday morning, thinking it was castor oil, and it is feared that the dose will result fatally. As soon as Mrs. Clark took the acid she discovered her mistake and physicians were immediately summoned. Her throat and stomach were badly burned and despite the efforts of the doctors to relieve her suffering, she was still in a very serious condition yesterday.

CIRCUIT COURT LACKS INTEREST

Civil Matters Will Still Be Paramount This Week.

NO IMPORTANT CASES.

Grand Jury Adjourns After Sitting Eighteen Days.

The docket in circuit court this week will still be devoid of general interest. Only civil matters will receive attention, and no cases of importance are to be tried.

The grand jury adjourned Saturday afternoon sitting 18 days, at an expense in salaries of $32. It proved to be a working body and returned more than 100 indictments. The last batch of 29 included 5 for gambling, 5 for selling liquor without a license, 3 for keeping bawdy houses and one each for suffering gaming robbery, gaming, selling soft drinks without a license, grand larceny, obtaining money under false pretenses and bribery. The last was against J. W. Head, the colored lawyer, growing out of the recent school trustees' election. No "night riding" indictments were returned, though there was some strong circumstantial evidence heard in some cases. The grand jury evidently shared in the general opinion that the "night riding" troubles are over and were reluctant to reopen them.

STAVE COMPANY

Purchases Year's Supply of Timber.

The Kentucky Stave Co. has recently purchased a large quantity of timber in this and Todd counties. Mr. O. B. Deason, manager of the local mill, says that he has already secured enough timber in Christian to run the Hopkinsville plant for a year and that a sufficiency has been bought in Todd to operate the plant in that county for the same length of time.

TOMB OF NAPOLEON

Subject of Dr. Jenkens' Fifteenth Sermon.

Rev. M. A. Jenkens preached the 15th sermon of the travel series, at the Baptist church, Sunday night to an audience of between 400 and 500 people. His subject was, "Reflections at the Tomb of Napoleon," a magnificent mausoleum 344 feet high, in Paris. The sermon was listened to with absorbing interest. There are four more of these sermons, but they will not be resumed until the first Sunday in December, as the Bible conference will interrupt them for two Sundays.

QUEEN OF THE SEAS

Reaches New York With All The Ocean Records Smashed.

New York, Oct. 11.—The Cunarder Louisiana, which practically all transatlantic liners to her credit, arrived at Sandy Hook Lightship at 1:25. The time for the distance from Daunt's Rock to the Sandy Hook Lightship, the official course over which the speed trials were made was four days, 12 hours and 52 minutes. The first day's run was apparently the fastest of the trip, the giant liner hitting up her speed to 25 knots an hour over a smooth sea with little wind to interfere with her. The Louisiana kept her time for her maiden trip in approximately five hours, her time on the first trip being five days, 64 minutes.

Money,
Save through the hours for money;

Save the pocket savings—
Money! And more! And MORE!

Never a thought for sadness,
Never a tear for woes;
Only the miser's concern—
Watching his treasure grow.

Helping the bone alay!

Money! Are, money always!

Good! We are money mad!

Repeating Venders.

Mrs. R. gives little concern to the shortage of domestic help. She takes care of her own home and does not require calipers except in the late afternoon or evening. During her work she frequently is annoyed by peddlers who come to the door, asking to see her and their wives. Beggars, peddlers and their wives, however, having caused her many unnecessary steps, are now tabooed. When she sees them through the glass in the door, she merely shakes her head and goes away, leaving them to grumble or swear according to their inclinations.

Not very many mornings ago, a sharp ring at the door came just as she was making Dutch cheese. She had a large gingham apron over her dress and her sleeves were rolled well to her elbows. Her hands were in the cheese and her toesides, she did not want to be disturbed by any show-off.

Through the sashes she could see a tall man standing at the door. He appeared like a book agent or a gold bond salesman and Mrs. R. didn't propose to listen to his story or be bothered by his entreaties.

Going into the hall where he could see her, she merely shook her head. The man bowed, smiled and insisted.

"No, I don't want anything," shouted Mrs. R.

Still the man stood there and motioned.

"I tell you I don't want anything," insisted the good woman. "Now go away and when you get to the kitchen finish your cheese."

That night when her husband came home, she gave him the new minister's card from the door.

Now Mrs. R. goes to another church in the neighborhood.

Had any off the cob yet?

When a man eats too much duck, he should take a dose of quack medicine.

When I see how much some men think they know it makes me disgusted with myself for not knowing how to make a million dollars a week. Something like a man's eye turns out to be a mooling.

If it is true that a scientist can tell what manner of man a fellow is from what he eats, that accounts for no one being able to understand a woman.

When you ask a man how he is getting along and he says he can't complain, you know he is not telling the truth because he means what he doesn't. Ask his wife.

No man ever got the dyspepsia from receiving too much gratitude.

There may be plenty of room at the top, but what I want to know is whether or not there is plenty of room below the top and for the bottom.

Since my wife saw a steer looking at her with reproachful eyes from a cattle car en route to market, she won't eat meat. I'm practicing the same stare, myself. Once I get it down, Uncle By will have sympathy to me.

Some men marry on $100 and, in after years, wonder how they dared take such chances on so small an amount.

Others in looking back, wonder where they got so much money all at once.

It is usually the bald-headed duffer who makes the most fun of a girl's hair.

It doesn't make any difference how beautiful you are, if you are not good.

Kindness, gentleness, goodness are absolutely necessary if you would have people love you. Beauty is merely a temporary attraction.

The frivolous and the fatuous whose regard does not count, won't be beautiful irrespective of character.

When a girl gets in a bind, she comes from the shadow of the tree where swings the hammock, you never can tell whether some one is trying to murder her or caterpillar has ruined her stock.

They make very natural duds those dresses—that open their eyes, cry when squeezed, walk when manipulated, etc, but they have failed utterly to make a dot that fits its food parent until it tries to trawl the tacky way until daylight and you respond to whether you succeed or not.

A Kansas farmer has hit upon a great scheme. He owns an automobile and as fast as he drives it pours the fluid into a expedient tank fastened in the rear. When the milkman comes to get in the cold ground the given goat will drink the milk he has been charged to deliver. Thus he combines business and pleasure and makes money at the same time.

RIVERS THAT HIDE

SOME TRUANT STREAMS OF THE FAR WEST.

Many Run for Miles Underground and Reappear Above Non-Porous Soft—Peculiar Course of Oregon River.

The "lost streams" of the far west as a rule lead in mountainous areas and rush downward into bowl-like valleys, where they inconsequently vanish. Some of them reappear miles from the vanishing point, while others are lost forever.

The "lost streams" of the far west as they now generally are comparatively few and small, but in the larger areas and gravel washed down from the rocky and forest-clad slopes, which absorb the water and through which it percolates slowly beneath the surface.

When the slow-moving underground current encounters an obstruction, as it often does in the shape of a natural ridge or the rock base of the end of the valley, the water is forced to the surface and the stream is born again.

The Santa Ana river in California sinks in the wash above Redlands, rises to the surface above Banning, like a stream from rivers from Riverside to Redrock canyon below Elsinon, sinks in the wash above Santa Ana and finally partly rises again in the large peat land springs above Talbert.

The San Gabriel and the Los Angeles rivers exhibit the same characteristics, but disappear and reappear later in their much shorter course to the sea.

At some points these sunken rivers flow for long distances under a wide stratum of impervious material where the water is under considerable pressure. When wells are driven through this stratum an artesian flow results.

The Deschutes, a popular stream in the Deschutes, which drains a large area of central Oregon. It is known to hydrographers all over the world for the extraordinary regularity of its flow throughout the year. This is accounted for by the porous lava formation which constitutes a portion of the drainage basin. When the streams come out this sheet of lava that are taken up by the sponge-like material and disappear from sight, passing beneath and through the lava and finally emerging through dark caverns and deep canyons into the main stream.

The Deschutes, it is said, is fed in nature's own reservoirs.

It swallow a great deal of wood that come down the steep slopes.

It absorbs the rains and snows and then releases them slowly through a filter miles in length into the Deschutes.

Day after day, year after year, its flow is uniform and its waters sparkling and clear. For this reason, probably, it is the finest trout stream in America.

New Mexico also has a truant stream—the Rio Mimbre. It drains many miles of mountain country in the southern part of the territory, and for a time is a stream of importance. Then, as tired of existence, it flows out at the head of Bear Denning and is lost forever, swallowed up in the loose sand and gravel.

The Pecos, too, is a truant at times and seeks seclusion beneath the surface coming up miles below in artesian springs of great volume.

The Weather.FOR KENTUCKY—Fair Tuesday, with rising temperature.WILLSON'S SPEECH

The Hon. Augustus E. Willson spoke here Saturday at the Tabernacle in the interest of his candidacy for governor. His crowd was large, but dwindled as the speaker consumed time. He spoke for about two hours. Many charges were made against the Democratic administration, but some of them were so utterly lacking in truth that all were discredited. Mr. Willson is a plausible talker, but he is more of a political speller than a statesman with ideas of his own. He showed an entire ignorance about public affairs at times. For instance in attacking the administration of the Western Asylum, he declared that he would put the asylum under the control of boards made up of the best people he could find in Christian county, which is ignorant of the fact that the eleemosynary institutions are no longer managed by local boards but by a state board. He declared that his position on the liquor question was well understood, but did not tell what it was, except that he was for the Republican platform. He repeated his insinuation that Mr. Bryan was paid to make speeches against him, though he admitted that he did not know that to be a fact.

The one distinctive predominating feature of his speech was the appeal to Democrats to bolt their ticket and vote for him. Over and over again he urged Democrats to vote for the Republican ticket, virtually advertising the winking out of party lines. His line of reasoning followed to a logical conclusion would absolve any Republican who is dissatisfied with his ticket from any obligation to support his party nominees. It virtually places Mr. Willson in the attitude of being an independent in politics in order to get votes. He fails to take into account that the dependent vote in the Democratic party, to which he would appeal, is growing smaller every year. Most of the leaders of this element, such men as Judge W. H. Yost, Capt. W.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the ear canal. When this tube is inflamed you have a runny ear or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure, send for circulars free.

J. Stone and others are on the stump for the Democratic ticket and Mr. Wilson is on a cold trail hunting for bolting Democrats this year.

Mr. Wilson, even weakened himself with the negroes by declaring that he was a white man and opposed to negro rule.

The Republican leader did not fulfill expectations. He is a better speaker than the last candidate for Governor, Mr. Belknap, but he lacks other elements of strength and will not prove to be much stronger as a candidate. Belknap was defeated by 27,000. Wilson may hold the Republican majority down to 20,000, by reason of local trouble in some Democratic cities and districts. Belknap carried Christian, by 1064 several hundred better than Wilson will do.

Three negro men were lynched at Tunica, Miss., for a series of burglaries. Two were hanged to a telephone pole and the other shot to death.

Carrie Nation has gone on the scene as a side attraction in a company playing "Ten Nights in a Bar-room." She will be paid $200 a week.

Mayor Bingham seems to be losing all his friends in Louisville. Even the preachers are down on him now because of his refusal to close Sunday theatres.

The Emperor of Austria, Francis Joseph, continues to grow worse and is evidently nearing the end of his reign. His heir is the Archduke Francis Ferdinand.

The Postoffice department has ruled that a young woman rural carrier who changed her name by marrying would have to forfeit her position as a carrier.

Miss Annie Ford, of Horse Cave, one of the winners of the Courier-Journal's European contest last year, was married Thursday to Mr. Courtland Terry, of Columbia, S. C.

Hon. Chas. G. McChesney, of the State Railroad Commission, has been elected President of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners, in session at Washington, D. C.

Colored voters have held a meeting in Louisville and there was a general concensus of opinion, as expressed in the speeches made, that it is abhorrent to registration certificates.

The temperance Democrats at Bowling Green, defeated in the primary, have entered into a fusion arrangement with the Republicans and are bolting the regular Democratic ticket.

Judge B. F. Peale, of Shelbyville, has resigned as circuit judge and will resume private practice. He will remove to Louisville. Charles Marshall of Shelbyville has been appointed to the vacancy.

Miss Helen O'Rear, who is a student in Shelbyville, fell over an obstruction and broke her arm on the street and her father, Judge E. C. O'Rear, has sued the city of Shelbyville and the Shelbyville Water and Light Co. for $2,000 damages.

Another bothersome question which will confront the President upon his return to Washington is one raised by the midshipmen just out of the Naval Academy. Several of the middies want to marry and their salaries barely support them.

In affirming the judgment of the Franklin court in the case of H. V. McChesney vs. S. W. Hager, auditor, the court of appeals holds that the secretary of State is entitled only to his salary of $3,000 per annum, and not to an additional $1,000 for collecting of corporation and other fees.

In his speech at Dixon Saturday Judge Hager entered an emphatic denial to Wilson's charge of carlessness in the Seminon shortage at Louisville. That not a penny was lost to the State or could have been lost to the State by reason of Mr. Seminon's transactions, was shown by Judge Hager. He took up the question and went into it thoroughly, as he has done before, showing that Mr. Seminon was bonded to a company worth millions and the State was absolutely protected. He denied that any checks had been held up and said that every month's report had come in promptly, and the money had all been paid, not one cent now owing to Mr. Seminon, who had settled in full when he was told the amount he owed.

In Great Demand.

The United States government waived the Civil Service examination in order to induce stenographers to go to the Isthmus of Panama to do stenographic work, at $125 per month. There has never been as urgent and unceasing demand for stenographers in all the history of this country.

The Business University at Bowling Green, Kentucky, trains as many good stenographers as any other business institution in America, and yet, it is unable to supply even half the calls made upon it for stenographers.

NASHVILLE DEMOCRATS

Lose Only One Man In City Election.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 11.—The democratic nominee with one exception, a candidate for councilman, were elected to-day. Little interest was manifested, the total vote being 4,650. J. S. Brown, for Mayor, defeated J. J. Odil three to one, and Geo. W. Steinheak, for member of the Board of Public Works, defeated John L. Kennedy about two and a half to one.

The proposed bond issue to put the city in the commercial lighting business was defeated.

A $200,000 bond issue to extend water mains to the suburbs carried and a bond issue to establish a permanent sidewalk fund is in doubt.

WELLMAN'S STEAMER

Went Down Off Cape Langenes, Iceland, October 5th

Copenhagen, Oct. 10.—The Arctic steamer Frithjof, which accompanied the Wellman Chicago, Record-Herald expedition to Spitzberg, was lost off Cape Langenes, Iceland, October 5. The Captain and fifteen of her crew were drowned. The engineer clung to a plank, on which he drifted ashore.

The Frithjof was homeward bound to Norway, having been damaged by ice, and consequently unable to withstand a storm which she encountered off Cape Lathens.

The Royal Month and the Royal Disease.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its bunches, cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative—consumption.

NEW USE FOR RADIUM.

French Doctors Remove Disfiguring Birth Marks With It.

Paris, Oct. 10.—Two prominent French physicians, Drs. Wickham and Degrais, have caused a sensation at the Academy of Medicine by a report that they had succeeded in many cases in removing the birthmarks known as port wine stains with radium. The new method has proved equally successful in the cases of adults and children. The marks are effected by the application of a plane surface covered with varnish containing radium. The action is regulated by the length and frequency of the applications.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American touring Corsica, receives word from his Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the popular Coraggio. Barnes' wife was under the impression that he was to be the hand of the girl he loves, Endi Anstruther. He had been engaged to her by the Count of Alaceto, a Marquis on board the French steamer Constantine. The vendetta pursues him to London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to suspect that there is a postponement of the journey.

CHAPTER II.—Barnes gets part of the mysterious note and receives letters which inform him that he is marked by the vendetta. He has to leave his detective and plans to beat the vendetta at their own game. For the purpose of saving himself, he goes to the British Consulate, where he has Lady Chariot issue a safe-conduct note which causes him to escape. Barnes is then a postponement of the journey.

CHAPTER III.—Barnes is captured and held in a cage with the Coral crew. A man, believed to be Coraggio, is seen passing the house and Marina is thought to have given him a sign. She refuses to explain. Barnes is then a postponement of the journey.

CHAPTER IV.—Barnes plans for the safety of the party and receives a note from the Count of Alaceto. He is captured and sent to the local landing is followed by two men, supposed to be Coraggio, and they try to murder the American. The cook on the yacht—a Frenchman—is suspected.

CHAPTER V.—The yacht is followed by a small boat. The cook is detected giving Barnes a note from the count. Barnes attempts to throw him overboard, but is prevented by Marina and Endi.

CHAPTER VI.—The cook is found to be innocent of the supposed plot and is forgivable. The cook arrives in Nice and finds Lady Chariot and her daughter Maud domiciled in the villa rented with Endi. Barnes is annoyed to find that Count Coraggio is in Nice and is acting the role of admiral to Lady Chariot.

CHAPTER VII.—Barnes and Endi make arrangements for their marriage.

CHAPTER VIII.—The night before the wedding Barnes receives a note from Le Belle Blackwood, an American adventurer and hears that Elijah Emory, his old friend, has been captured by the Corsicans. He learns that the man supposed to be Coraggio, who followed the party to the local landing, is his son, Endi, a nephew of the count, and that Count Coraggio had been in Nice for some time prior to the party's arrival.

The count's plan Barnes does not fully understand because he would have her also involved in the murderous feud.

CHAPTER IX.—Barnes and Endi are married. Barnes secures the bride disappears. Barnes discovers she has been kidnapped and taken to Corsica.

CHAPTER X.—The group secures a fishing vessel and is about to start in pursuit of his bride when he learns a secret from the villa and learns he must bear to hear that Anstruther's wife, Marina, is also missing. Barnes is compelled to depart for the island. He has no idea where he leaves the search for Marina to his husband while he goes to hunt for Endi. Just as Barnes is about to leave, the Corsican's shore Marina is discovered hidden in a corner of the vessel. She explains her absence by saying that she has come to help Barnes to rescue his wife from the Corsicans.

CHAPTER XI.—When Barnes and Marina arrive in Corsica, it is given to Barnes to write her information that the kidnapping is for the purpose of entrapping Barnes, as the vendetta may kill him.

"To try and save your wife, we sacrifice my husband!" cries the Corsican girl. "You couldn't have done it! You know too little of this curious island and its people. To you a strong, every one of the jealous, suspicious race would be an enemy—to me, horn with them—the name of my family adored—some will be friends. You would surely fall, I may succeed!"

"You should have told your husband!" The American's voice is almost stern.

"I dared not! Edwin would not have let me go. My darling values me too highly to risk a hair of my head on such a venture," answers the Corsican girl.

"Why didn't you tell me when I came on board? You lay here unsheltered all night save by the bulkheads," utters Burton sympathetically.

"The night was warm; the wind, though strong, was balmy. Besides, I waited till you were near enough to Corsica to turn back from it, even to restore my strength. There is the island. There I will help you find your bride. Endi shall not die nor suffer because she is the sister of my husband or because she is your wife."

"Great Scott, you're the Marina of old! She exclaims in astonished admiration.

"Of course I am," she answers buoyantly. "My darling husband is for the moment safe. Their letter which branded me as traitor to my race for marrying Edwin, says if I desert my husband, that will spank him. Coraggio keeps her in strict confinement. Those assassins will think that I have abandoned the husband of my heart and will spare him till I return to again nestle in his arms and shield him with my very life against these scoundrels of the blood feud."

BOOK THREE.

CHAPTER XI.

"Beware the Path Ahead of You!" The American paces the deck more buoyantly; reflection shows him what a prodigious aid Marina's knowledge of her native island, its proud, rugged race and curious customs, will be to him in his search for his lost bride.

The mists of the morning are slowly rising from the hilly headlands of Cape Rosso; before the vessel's how rises the old Genoese watch tower that guards the harbor of Porto, from which he has shipped the timber of the great Valdonio forest.

The alert Graham, who has gazed from the stern astounded at the sudden appearance of Mrs. Anstruther on board his craft, leaves the wheel to a jack tar, now comes forward and straightening his hat to the lady, says: "Please to see me, Madam, I thought you kept a good watch on deck. Our eyes were always on the damaged property." A moment later, he remarks: "With this wind, we can make the coast a wee bit farther to the south."

"What do you mean?" commands Marina.

"Many a long year you can, nearly 15 miles below here at Sagona."

"What?" asked Barnes, some surprise in his tone.

"Sagona by its mountain path is the nearest port to Bocognano. They dare never convey you through Ajaccio. By the wild mountain paths they can take you to Bocognano unobserved and unquestioned by the woodcutters of the forest glens or the sheepherds of the steep pastures of Livo Oro."

"You think the Seagull will be at Sagona?"

"I hope so," answers the girl. "That's what you told me you were taking her to Bocognano."

By Barnes' direction Graham immediately alters the course of the vessel further to the south, and they dash down the picturesque coast of the island, whose forest clad mountains run to the very waters of the sea, till they reach the port of Cargese and open the beautiful Gulf of Sagona, now calm as a summer lake.

Here, to the east, in the far recesses of the bay, is a still gleaming white under the sun that has just risen over the wooden headlands.

Barnes puts his field glasses upon it and a number of small sailing ships, the Scotch and the Spanish, are to be seen on the wheel to a seaman's hands. After a few moments of suspense, takes a long look at it; then borrows the American's glasses and runs nimbly up the rigging to the top of the mast.

From his eerie post he calls: "Edwin, Andrew, it's the Seagull."

"Oh, Edie, what's the meaning of?" asks Marina's anxious voice.

"I can never believe it," answers Graham, as he descends to the deck. "For the vessel is anchored."

"For God's sake, get me off the yacht!" commands the American.

As Barnes' hands grip the wheel, the bronze has died with the rising sun; it is another hour before they fan their way near the Seagull. Upon the deck is a solitary man, who frantically screams to them: "A moi, mes amis! Rescuer me! Sacre bleu, ze pirate cochon has left me! I am Leboeuf, Leboeuf and son de tropes to go with us to Bocognano."

Leboeuf is now calling down the companionway: "Monsieur, I have obeyed your wife's commands. A good meal is served on deck for you and Madame Anstruther."

He must eat to keep his strength up for the work that is ahead of him. The American steps alertly on deck and shows to show his appreciation of the French chef's art, but anguish is a har- aperite.

After a moment Barnes passes Endi's letter over to Edwin's wife. When she has read it, he says: "I have been thinking if it wouldn't be better to sail to Ajaccio and get Endi back and bring him to our island. That shore Marina is discovered hidden in a corner of the vessel. She explains her absence by saying that she has come to help Barnes to rescue his wife from the Corsicans."

"Take heart, we'll board ye, brave Leboeuf!" shouts Graham, and carefully crossed by the Scotch mate, the fishing vessel is run alongside the Seagull.

The light swell permits them to spring from one little craft to the other, and in a moment Barnes has secured Marina to his side.

Here they are met by joyful exclamations and exclamations from Monsieur Leboeuf. "Monsieur Barnes," he cries sympathetically, "ze pirates have carried your wife away. Zey boarded me at ze moment I was pack- ing your supper ze cabin table last evening. Zey zaged my meat! I could not eat it! Zey took my plates and zemes and she came on board in ze blackness. One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is due to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing; therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would live in good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original price of which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

The attraction at the Opera House Wednesday night, Oct. 16, will be Eugene Moore's dramatization of Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth's famous old story, "The Hidden Hand" and tells a story of the folks who live amid the mountains and valleys of probably the most home-like region of the United States—Old Virginia. It is said to be one of those natural plays that leaves a strong and favorable impression wherever it is presented. Take your sister to see "The Hidden Hand" and it will not cause a blush; take the children and they will be amused at its abundance of humor; take the old folks and they will enjoy a revival of old associates. It is a play for all and the company is said to be an exceptionally meritorious one.
